We mite retire a worn-out bill, but ez that wood contract the currency, we don't think it is the best thing to do. We want a volume uv currency afloat ekal to the demands uv trade.

There wuz some trouble, for a great many farmers didn't want to take it, and Bascom kicked somewhat. But we hed a remedy for this. The labrin populashin held a meetin, and in the sacred coz ov laber agin capitle notified the people that any one which refoozed to take the money at par wood be to wunst hung. Under this stimulus Bascom took it, but he immejitly advanced the price uv likker to fifteen cents, and a few hours after to twenty-five.

We remonstrated with him about it, and he answered us:

"Ef there's going to be a era uv prosperity I am going to share in it. Yoo kin hey all the likker you want at 5 cents, old money, but ef I am compelled to take your tiat money for likker you can't dictate to me the price I shel ask, for that rests with me ez a free citizen uv these Yoonited States." He Didn't Know. [From the Hackensack Republican.]

It was on a ball-ground. He was a young man, and had a memorandum-book in his pencil, and presently a man leaned over and said:

"What's the score?" "I don't know!" was the reply. Then there was a few moments of silence, during which time the young man figured away until another man approached and asked: "What inning is this?" "Don't know," was the sullen reply. "Oh, you don't," said the querist, sarcastically; "well, you needn't be putting on airs over it, as if I were asking you the secrets of Freemasonry." He had no more than recovered from the shock than another man walked over to him and inquired: "Was that last a two- or a three-base hit?"

This made the young man mad, and he replied not. The inquirer passed, and he enjoyed five minutes' peace, when a ragged little gamin stepped up to him and yelled: "Say, mister, how many runs ahead are the Jerseys?" Then a man asked him which paper he represented, and while he was simmering with rage another fellow walked up to him to make some inquiry, but before he could open his mouth to do so the man with the memorandum-book cut him short by jumping up and screaming, "I don't know the score; I don't know what inning it is; I don't know a curve-pitcher from a history of Paraguay; I am not connected with any paper; now, don't ask me any more questions. It's a pity if a man can't sit down to compose a few verses for a lady's autograph-album without being bored to death about a game of ball!" Then he resumed his seat, red in the face, and was allowed to continue his verses in peace.
